The Great West Lumber Company.

The first outfit of the Great West Lumber Company has been busy some weeks in the bush preparing roadways and camps for the gangs which will follow shortly to get out next year's supply of logs. The mill has been busy all fall and shut down Monday owing to frost, leaving enough logs in the canal for a good start in the spring.

The Company intend getting out double the quantity of logs this winter, and the mill will be pushed to its full capacity next year. Gangs of men will leave for the camps as soon as they can be found, and everything points to a prosperous season's work for the Company next year.

The season just closed has been a prosperous one for the Company, the mill with its new machinery being in excellent shape, the cutsome days exceeded 50,000 feet. We congratulate J. H. Menzies and his able assistants on the splendid manner in which they have brought the Company up to its present most efficient state.

Quiet Wedding.

On October 8th, at Rainy Creek M. E. church, a very pretty wedding was witnessed by about sixty-five invited guests, when Edith, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Nelson, was united in marriage to Edward Forster, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Forster, Snake Lake. The church was very prettily decorated with evergreens and flowers. Promptly at noon, to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Ruth Forster, the bride and groom entered the church, attended by Miss Emma Nelson, sister of the bride, and Mr. David Forster, brother of the groom. Rev. Anderson, of Blackfalds, performed the ceremony, and after many congratulations and good wishes for their future happiness and prosperity, the entire company repaired to the home of the bride, where a veritable wedding feast was served. The many pretty and expensive wedding gifts gave evidence of the esteem in which they were held by their many friends and relatives. They will at once go to housekeeping on the groom's farm at Snake Lake, where they will be at home to their numerous friends.

U. F. A.

The regular meeting of the Red Deer branch of United Farmers of Alberta, held Saturday afternoon last, was not largely attended. In the absence of President James Bower, who is in B. C., Jas. Speirs was voted to the chair. Routine business was transacted, and Mr. Sharman reported he had received word from Mr. Bower that he had met with greater success in the west than he could possibly have expected. The monthly report from the provincial secretary was read and discussed, and some of the clauses will be taken up at next meeting. The annual meeting for election of officers should be held next month when a full attendance of members is requested.

CANADIAN ORDER OF FORESTERS.

Last Tuesday night the Court Red Deer C.O.F. spent a most enjoyable evening. Bro. John Muir, western organizer, had rustled up a bunch of candidates and the following were initiated: Messrs. Stanley Hayden, Adam McPherson, Joe Wright and John Collins. The "eat" was in grand form after being idle so long, and was certainly very frisky. Bro. Muir gave a most interesting address on the work of the C.O.F., the rest of the evening was spent in a social manner, songs and smokes being the order of the evening interspersed with snappy speeches from several of the members present. It is hoped to continue these social evenings throughout the winter, and all members may be sure of a good time.

Monday was the King's birthday. Flags were flying over the school building, the Alexandra, F. Mott's and other places in town.

A SERMON ON BEEF.

IMPERIAL DEFENCE.

The question of the hour seems to be "Shall we have a Canadian navy or shall we contribute to the support of Imperial Arms by a grant to the Mother Country?" A Canadian navy will cost upwards of $80,000,000 in ten years, and most of the money will come out of the pockets of the farmers. Why should such a heavy burden be placed on the farming community? Is the burden of taxation not high enough at the present time, that an additional burden should be placed on their shoulders? Canada is in no danger of invasion; if Great Britain should be in danger from a European nation Dreadnoughts should be in the English Channel to protect the Mother Land, not here. There never was a time in the history of Canada when the whole power of the British nation was not at our command, nor a time when the last drop of British blood was not ready to be shed in our defence. Then why this desperate haste for a navy of our own?

We contend the Marine Department of Canada is not capable of managing a navy at the present time with any degree of satisfaction to the people. The electors have not forgotten the corruption which pervaded this department the last few years.

If a grant of say $10,000,000 was made to the home government to build vessels to be added to the fleet, said vessels to be kept account of so that at a future period we could have them returned to us, might be arranged. Then again the Admiralty of the Mother Land is entirely outside of politics, graft and party, and can be depended on for clean dealing, and would utilize our money to the best advantage.

Liberals, like Mulock and Emmerson, are opposed to a large expenditure for a Canadian navy, and under no consideration should a scheme of this nature be carried out without first appealing to the people.

BRAINY MAN WANTED.

The Edmonton Bulletin swings the name of W. M. Davidson to the breeze as a candidate for university senate honors and the Bulletin does well. At present there is not a newspaper representative on the senate, and the election of Mr. Davidson would place one on the board who would do his own thinking every day in the year, which would be a mighty good thing for the senate or any other institution that is carried on in the public interest.—Calgary News.

said Mr. Borden, "can best be preserved by co-operation in defence and in trade. Canada cannot escape the first responsibility of nationhood, nor does she seek to escape it. It is said she is in no danger of attack, and therefore no preparation for co-operation is necessary. So long as we remain in the Empire, Canada cannot hold aloof in time of danger."

"Could the Dominion share in the benefits of British citizenship and yet evade responsibilities? It was inconceivable to believe such a thing, and he believed that the will of the people would affirm the declaration of parliament that responsibility and co-operation in naval defence must be met and discharged. That responsibility involved two considerations.

(1) Canada's duty in the hour of emergency.

(2) Canada's duty in future permanent co-operation.

Referring to the discussion before the House of Commons last session, Mr. Borden explained the position in the matter as follows: "The resolution as proposed by the Prime Minister was modified at our instance in several important respects. In its original form, it declared against any money contribution to the Imperial treasury for naval defence. Its modified form permits, and, indeed, authorizes in time of need emergency money contributions. This modification we deemed necessary because under present conditions the only immediate aid Canada could bring to the naval defence of the Empire in times of serious peril would be of this nature. Whether such peril is imminent must be known to the government, and upon them will be the heavy responsibility if disaster or humiliation should ensue through their default."

Council Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Town Council was held on Tuesday evening; members all present except Councillor McKenzie. His worship Mayor Botterill in the chair.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A. W. G. Allen, secretary of the Memorial Hospital, asked for the grant to the Hospital of $500, provided for in the estimates. On motion ordered to be paid.

Mr. Allen also asked for return of certain taxes charged the Hospital, as the building and two acres of land is exempt. Laid over.

Overseer Milfin asked for two weeks vacation. Granted.

The Board of Trade asked for balance of grant amounting to $150.

High River asked for information re system of conducting affairs of town under commission idea. Answered.

The Town Solicitors wrote enclosing letter from R. B. Bennett re. closing of lane near C. P. R. Filed.

H. H. Drake asked for return of fine imposed.

The Western Gen. Elec. Co. wrote re. telephone in Town office.

The balance of the grant to the Board of Trade, amounting to $150, was passed.

Overseer Milfin was granted leave of absence for two weeks.

COMMISSIONERS' REPORT.

We recommend the appointment of Geo. Bell as night constable from now till April 1st at a salary of $80 per month.

We have been unable to secure from Drummond McCall Co. satisfactory specifications for the pump, though we have written and wired them three times. It would be useless to order the bare pump, and then have to order later a lot of extras that would take a long time to procure, and delay the installation of the pump as happened when the other pump was bought. Last Saturday Mr. A. A. representing the John McDougall Company, came to town and looked over the pump and requirements to install the pump complete. He will furnish us by the end of this week with complete specifications and terms, which we trust will be satisfactory.

We have purchased a stock of timothy hay from H. Lowden for $10.50 per ton, to be delivered as required.

On the 10th ult. the Mayor was served with a notice from the Western General Electric Co. which is submitted herewith. It was replied to under advice of the Town Solicitor.

We recommend that we be authorized to issue cheques to the Town of Red Deer for $1.80 and $19.78 covering interest on arrears of taxes M. J. McDonald and A. L. Loeble. These taxes had been defaulted by L. C. Fulmer but were carried to the 1908 roll as arrears as the money was not paid by the bond company last year.

We have rented the shack at the intake for the winter at $5.00 per month.

In reference to the request of Forrester & Cruickshank for permission to remove a building to the rear of their livery barn, on which we were instructed to report, we beg to submit plan of the proposed change, and the by-law governing the same. We cannot recommend any deviation from the by-law, particularly at this time when we are trying to secure a reduction in the insurance rates.

The horse wagon has been completed and delivered to the town from the late Mr. Herbert for $150.

We have not yet received from Engineer Neville the reports of cost of sewer and waterworks extensions laid this year.

The sewer outlet has been put in shape for the winter, catch basins covered to prevent their filling with snow and ice, all sidewalks repaired, new sidewalks completed, door of tool house repaired, all water valves dug up and repacked, and gravel walk to hospital about half completed. All men have been laid off except enough to complete the installation of the sewer and water connections applied for.

The front of the fire hall has been fixed up as recommended, and the furnace installed. Later we will have all hydrants protected with manure to try to prevent their freezing up.

We have instructed Health Inspector Rothnie to notify all laundries and restaurants to connect up with the sewers at once, or action will be taken against them under the health by-law.

They were notified early in the summer to do this, and some have failed to comply with the notice.

We submit list of accounts for your consideration.

We submit herewith statement of receipts and disbursements for October.

The amount spent to date on public works construction is $1519.45 including engineering.

The following sidewalks have been constructed:

6 foot, Gaetz avenue, from McLeod to new bridge.

4 foot, Parkvale avenue, from Mann to Eccles.

6 foot, Ross, from Alexander to new offices.

6 foot, Stewart, from McKenzie to Alexander.

4 foot, Alexander, from McKenzie to Norton.

4 foot, McKenzie, from Eccles to Brook.

4 foot, Brook, from McKenzie to Norton.

However this may be, the fact remains that in four continents to which it has been introduced within ten years it has become the leading household remedy for burns, cuts, scalds, bruises, eczema, piles, ulcers, ringworm, itch, salt-rheum, bad leg, festering sores, chapped places, cold-sores, frost-bites, and all skin injuries and diseases. Zam-Buk is beyond doubt a most marvelous cure.

Water Gauge Burst.

C.P.R. Fireman Badly Scalded.

C.P.R. Fireman Geo. H. Duffus, who lives in Robertson Street, Port William, while on his engine near Westford happened a nasty accident. The low gauge of the locomotive burst and scalded the whole of the left side of his face and head terribly.

"It so happened," said Duffus to our representative, "that I had a box of Zam-Buk in my pocket, which I used for a sore on my lip, and when I recovered from the first shock of the accident, I produced the balm and had it applied freely to the scalded parts. At the time I applied it I was suffering acute agony, but within a wonderable space of time the pain was all over. I was able to continue my journey, and upon reaching home I obtained more Zam-Buk and continued the treatment. It acted wonderfully well, and in a few days had the wound nicely healed. I don't know anything so fine as a healer of burns, scalds, cuts and similar injuries which workers are so liable to and in my opinion a box of Zam-Buk should be kept handy in every worker's home."

There is something different and superior about Zam-Buk. Time and again workers in all branches of trade have proved its vast superiority. It is the advertised ointment and salves of the day. No doubt the fact that Zam-Buk is made entirely from herbal essences and extracts, while ordinary

Mr. Ward Replies to Our Remarks.

To the Editor of the News.
Dear Sir—
With your kind permission I would like to say a few words respecting your remarks on the Red Deer Creamery and the presentation to me of the very handsome souvenir of my connection with the creamery. As you say the creamery has been successful far beyond our expectations in the early days when we carried our responsibilities in faith, but also with fear and trembling. We have had good men for buttermakers, good cream haulers, and perhaps the most important—a Board of Directors that worked harmoniously together; there has never been any cross purposes or jarring strings, but one and all have worked steadily for two objects—first, to obtain as high a price for the patrons for their butter as possible, and secondly, to keep the creamery so up-to-date and in such a state of efficiency that it would be possible to obtain such a price. First we worked for quantity to enable the Dairy Department to manufacture economically, latterly we have been working for quality, for the best butter commands the highest price. Mr. Marker summed this up at our recent meeting in a short sentence which every patron would do well to think over and study the depth of meaning there is in it, when he said: "There is competition amongst the buyers for the good butter and competition amongst the sellers for the poor butter." The personnel of the Board has changed with the years, one has gone to the Great Beyond, and some have moved a distance away or ceased their connection with it, until I think only two Directors remain of the original Board which carried the Association through its early struggles; but the same mantle rests on the Board now as then, and while efficiency and economy are the aim of the Directorate the success of the creamery is assured.

In wishing the Association every success in the future, I may say that I expect to see it steadily increase its sphere of influence as patrons more and more come to realize that dairying is the surest proposition in the whole range of farming. I shall always cherish the most pleasant recollections of an association which it has been my privilege to have had some small share in promoting, and if in the furthest West an opportunity should ever come to me to further in any way the interests of either of the associations with which I have been connected in Red Deer, it would offer me the greatest of pleasure to serve them. Thanking you in anticipation,
I am, Sir,
Yours very truly,
C. J. B. WARD.

Anniversary at Willowdale.

The anniversary services, connected with the Willowdale Presbyterian church, was held on Sabbath, the 31st of October, when the Rev. W. G. Brown, of Red Deer, presided to a large and appreciative audience at 3 p.m.

On Monday a sumptuous supper was served in the church by the ladies of the congregation, after which a lengthy programme was gone through, consisting of instrumental music, recitations and solos. Rev. W. G. Brown, Rev. Mr. Robinson, Toronto, and Rev. Mr. Allen, Springfield, gave excellent addresses, which were heartily enjoyed by the large audience. The proceeds amounted to $80 from all sources.

The Moving Pictures.

The moving picture show at the Lyric is becoming popular. The pictures shown are nothing but the latest, cleanest and best, and are well worth your time seeing. Monday's and Tuesday's program, being a choice selection of instructive and comical pictures, is being well spoken of around town. The inauguration of W. H. Tait, President of United States, last week was in itself worth the price of admission. It is well worth your time to see the pictures for Friday and Saturday nights.

Although only a gramophone is used for illustrated songs, it is very good, but the management of the theatre have been trying ever since opening to get a girl to sing the song, and another one to play the piano, and are still on the lookout.

Those who seen the pictures since opening speak the best of them; those who have not seen them have certainly missed something really good. Ladies are cordially invited to attend, as no pictures will be shown that can possibly offend the most refined taste.

The Late William Howarth of Balmoral, Red Deer.

The district of Balmoral, 4 miles east of Red Deer, was enshrouded in gloom when the news was heard of the death of Mr. William Howarth, aged 82 years and 7 months, who passed away on Monday, Nov. 21st, 1909. Mr. Howarth came from Lancashire, England, and came to Canada in 1883 and settled in Ontario, where he farmed successfully for a number of years, and then came out to western Canada in 1904 with his family and settled in above district. Balmoral district has lost one of its most highly respected and well known settlers.

Mr. Howarth leaves a wife and three daughters, Mrs. C. Thompson, of Red Deer, Mrs. W. A. Chandler, of Markerville, and Mrs. E. H. Salton, of Ponoka; and two sons, Robert Howarth at home, and William Howarth of B.C. The funeral was conducted by Rev. C. W. G. Moore on Wednesday, November 3rd, from the home, at 3 p.m., to the Red Deer cemetery, when a large attendance of friends turned out to pay their last respects. The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved family.

FOLEY'S PREMIER SODAS

SODAS are made almost entirely of flour and lard. These are two of the principal and most valuable food-elements. Now a perfect flour and a pure lard combined cannot be surpassed in nourishing value and you get this combination in its most satisfying and most delightful form in Foley's SODAS.

We want you to judge Foley's Sodas by the severest tests and decide for yourself whether they are BEST.
Test them for the quality of the materials used. Test them for age—are they always fresh, so crisp that you know they are not long from the oven?
Test them for flavor—was the yeast allowed to "work" properly, so that the biscuits are uniformly pleasing and satisfying to the taste?
After these tests we know you will always buy these perfect-made, western-made biscuits.

GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEN
Author of "The Story of a Girl"
Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Company

"The reserved but considerate Baner was with her closest friend and confidant. One evening as they sat side by side watching the preparations for supper she turned suddenly and announced that she knew he was dying of love for some one. He started, and his hand trembled.

"Tell me about her," she commanded. "There was a beauty, a girl with an impelling force in this girl that grief and hardship had not been strong enough to conquer.

"Nonsense!" said Graydon. "Why do you think that?"

"Because everybody else thinks it," she said, "and because I am a very wise person. The men are not so charitable as I, senior. They say that you joined the army because of some woman whom you could not marry. I agree with them, except that it is she who would not marry you. Forgive me if I have hurt you."

Impulsively she put her hand upon his, her dark eyes full of pleading. The touch of her hand did not send a thrill through him. Such contact, however, caused the blood to rush to the cheeks of the girl. He merely sat and stared into space. After a moment she drew her hand away.

"I am sorry," she said.

"There is a girl, Teresa," he said shortly.

"Yes, I know. Tell me about her."

"I can't," he exclaimed bitterly. "He arose and walked quickly away. Teresa's dark eyes followed him in pity and wonder—aye, affection. Then she shook her head and turned her attention elsewhere—not pined, much to her own amazement.

Re-enforcements came up two days later with the word that the commander in chief expected the campaign against Pilar to end within a week and that fighting was ahead. The Red Cross people were following hard upon the heels of the regiment, and field hospitals were to be established.

Every man in the band of newcomers was singing the praises of the Red Cross. The stories told of her charms were varied, but none lacked enthusiasm. Some said she was the daughter of a rich magnate come to do service in the cause of humanity; others were sure she was a great and beautiful actress who was sacrificing everything to conspicuous advertising. All, however, were agreed in the praise of her noble beauty.

The little detachment on guard turned up its collective nose and proudly pointed to Teresa Velasquez.

"Look at that," said Bob Spurrer. "She's stuck up with the blushing queen! Our girl is real reality. She's no common American. She's a grander daughter. There's royal blood in her. By thunder, gentlemen, she's blood in it all!"

Teresa sought shelter from the curious gazing admiring eyes of the fresh arrivals.

"I don't like these new soldiers," she complained to Graydon. "I wish they had not come. They talk of this beautiful nurse, and they laugh at me. Oh, I wish I had something else to wear."

"Don't worry, little girl; you're worth ten," said Bob.

"Alas, though I am dressed as a man, I do not feel as bold as one," she lamented.

The next day re-enforcements came up, and the whole command advanced upon Tilted pass, where Pilar, at last, had been cornered. On the 24th of December a desperate conflict took place. Pilar was intruded in the pass near the celebrated rock known as El Ojo de la Bala. His resistance for a time was valiant and deadly. Corporal Parry saw him mount his horse, brandish the barbed 600 yards away. He was the last man to see him. The regiment and, turning to his chief officer, asked if he should take a shot at him.

He fired, and Pilar fell, face downward, and the Americans crushed the little band of insurgents. Gregorio del Pilar was dead. His death in the great battle, after a most courageous battle against an overwhelming force, brought to an end a life that would have been wasted to the islands in after years. In his pockets were found valuable papers, letters and keepsakes. The letters were from his sweetheart, Dolores Jose, who lived at Dagupan, and they were tender in the extreme. Her lace handkerchief rested over his heart.

When the Americans, victorious and militant, fell back to camp, they had a small number of wounded to turn over to the tender mercies of the little company of Red Cross nurses and the surgeons.

One of the most dangerously injured was Graydon Baner. He was one of the first to reach the danger line. A Mauser ball from a distant hill tore through his side, leaving an ugly, gaping wound that foretold certain death.

For many weary, heartless months. She found him dying.

To the surprise of the enthralled command, she felt in a dead swoon when she looked upon the pallid face of Graydon Baner. She had gone eagerly from one patient to another, coming upon his near the last. One glance was enough. His face had been in her mind for months, just as she was seeing it now. She had lived in horror of finding him cold in death. It was Teresa Velasquez who first understood. She knew that Baner's one woman had found him at last. Her heart leaped with joy for one that instant, then turned soft and contrite. If she had learned to care for the big American hero during the hard days when he had been so tender, she also had learned that her worship was hopeless. She had felt his yearning love for another. Now she was looking upon that other. While the attendants were bending over their unconscious companion the Spanish girl stood guard over the man who had been her guardian, and clasped his hands, cried sharply into his half-conscious ears.

"He is not dead! He is alive! He needs you!"

The effect was magical. Life leaped into Jane's eyes, vigor into her body. She recovered from the swoon as suddenly as she had fallen into it. Her sudden breakdown had puzzled her companions. It is true that she was now in the service; she had seen but little of death and suffering, but with all that, she was known to possess remarkable strength of purpose and fortitude. The fact that she had been almost at the point of her own death, and that she had seen the man who had been her guardian, and who was now lying on the table, was a great deal to her. "Have you made a careful examination? Is it possible that no vital spot has been touched?"

"We haven't had time for a thorough examination. It was better not to waste the time on him when there were others whom we have a chance to save."

"You will oblige me, doctor, by giving him the quickest and most careful attention. He is the bravest man in the army. Don't let him die if there is a chance for him. Miss—er—the nurse—has asked if he can be moved today."

"No, but wait! I don't see why, if it will satisfy her. He will die anyhow, so why not let her that we will start south with him tomorrow?"

"It isn't fair. She should be told the truth."

"He'd die, that's all—anyway you put it."

"You will make the examination?"

"Yes, in—at once."

"But you—feel that it is hopeless?"

"Certainly, sir."

"I'm—I'm sorry," said Gray, walking away. The doctor looked after him with a queer expression in his eyes and then called his conferees to the patient.

Gray found Jane waiting for him outside the door. Teresa Velasquez was standing beside her, holding her hand.

"What does this mean?" cried Jane, gray with anguish.

"He cannot be moved. There is no but little hope, Miss Cable. They are to make a further examination."

"He must be saved! He must! Let me go to him now. I will help. I will give my life to save him," she cried.

"Gray stood between her and the door. His arms extended.

"Don't go in now, I implore. Wait. There may be good news in the world to me."

"Come with me," whispered Teresa. "I'll look after the Spanish girl, and you can look after the nurse's life."

been lifted from the grave.

Lieutenant Gray was seated in front of the convent last that evening, moodily gazing at his own emotions. Teresa, still attired as she had been for weeks, hung about the chapel with the persistence of a friendless dog. Life watched her and pitied her, even as he pitied himself for the wound he was nursing. What was to become of her?

"She'll be better," he said. "Tell me, doctor, what is to be?"

"Oh, senior, he has been so good and so honorable. If he lives in all ways hold these weeks with him in absolute reverence."

"Then she does not understand?"

"She? What is there for her to understand? She loves him and he loves her. That is enough."

"She says she will not marry him. There must be a reason."

"The girl's face darkened instantly and her breath came quickly."

"You—you think that I am the reason? Is it so? Because I am here in these hateful clothes? You would say that to me? How could I be so?"

"He is conscious?" she cried. "He knows me?"

The Retort Unconscious

"Magistrate (discharging prisoner): 'Now, then, I would advise you to keep away from his company.'"

Prisoner (feelingly): "Thank you, sir. You won't see me here again."

A young girl of fourteen was taking a trip on Lake Michigan in a small boat. She had a small, somewhat rough and many were sent to the girl sat in the bow and was usually called for her. "Are you feeling sick, daughter?" inquired her father. "I don't think I am sick, but I should hate to yawn." "Like."

"Mother, is that boy run for the bottle on your table?"

"No, my dear, that is the next gun."

"Ah," said little Johnny reflectively, "now I know why I can't get my hat off."

A Pleasant Purgative.—Parnele's Vegetable Pills are so compounded as to operate on both the stomach and the bowels; so that they act along the whole alimentary and excretory passages. They are not drastic in their work, but mildly purgative, and the pleasure of taking them is only equalled by the gratifying effect they produce. Compounded only of vegetable substances the curative qualities of which were fully tested, they afford relief without chance of injury.

At a small Scottish town served by a branch railway line there arrived a train of goods wagons. The engine, earlier stages, leads to the most terrible suffering, if not death itself, and the engine was so crippled that it could not move. The goods were all stages is Dodd's Kidney Pills. In the experience of Mr. James E. Brant, a farmer residing near a town, a train, and like loads of others, he neglected it, expecting it to go away itself.

But it kept gradually growing worse, till after thirty years of increasing suffering the climax came, and he found himself so crippled that he could not get out of bed, and for two weeks at a time it was impossible for him to rise from a chair without putting his hands on his knees.

He could not button his clothes. He was troubled with Lumbago, Gout, and Rheumatism, and he tried many remedies for each and all of them without getting relief. At last, a good friend turned him to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Dodd's Kidney Pills started at the root of his troubles, and cured his Lumbago, Gout, and Rheumatism. With curbed his kidneys, and his troubles speedily disappeared, and today he is a well man.

Why Stanfield's Make Underwear

UP to 20 years ago, most everyone considered that all Underwear—no matter how well cut and made—would shrink and harden.

In those days, the makers were working on the wrong idea. They were trying to find a way to finish Underwear so that it would not shrink, instead of trying to find a way to get the shrink out of the wool before the yarn went to the knitting machines.

The late C. E. Stanfield—who knew wool as only a man can know it who studies it from the sheep's back to the wearer's back—gave his attention to the problem for years.

Living in Nova Scotia, he soon realized that woolen underwear, and the best of pure woolen underwear, was the only kind that would and could protect the Canadian against the rigorous Canadian Winter. He found that as underwear was then made, he could not make woolen underwear that would not shrink, mat and harden. He devoted himself to this problem and after many years of experimenting, he finally discovered a method by which he could take the shrink out of the wool before the garments were knitted.

This method, improved and perfected, has made possible the immense business of Stanfield's Limited, with a larger output of their special classes of Underwear than any other factory in Canada.

The Stanfields make underwear today because Canadian people find Stanfield's Underwear the most comfortable, the most durable, and the warmest for its weight.

The Stanfields are making more underwear every year because the buying public demands more of it. Popularity is a good test of quality.

In a standard weights—Light (Red Label), Medium (Blue Label) and Heavy (Black Label) and 17 other weights and qualities to suit the needs and requirements of every man and woman.

The goods were all stages is Dodd's Kidney Pills. In the experience of Mr. James E. But it kept gradually growing worse, till after thirty years of increasing suffering the climax came, and he found himself so crippled that he could not get out of bed, and for two weeks at a time it was impossible for him to rise from a chair without putting his hands on his knees.

He could not button his clothes. He was troubled with Lumbago, Gout, and Rheumatism, and he tried many remedies for each and all of them without getting relief. At last, a good friend turned him to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

A MAINSTAY FOR ALL MEN

All Breadwinners Who Find Health Declining Should Take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Thousands of men throughout Canada are suffering to-day from a deplorable failure of strength without knowing the cause. They are victims of nervous exhaustion. The signs are plain. The sufferer cannot keep his head up. He is restless, nervous, turns against food and cannot digest it. He feels exhausted after exertion, while headaches and fits of distress often add to the misery. These symptoms denote that the nervous system is weakened and insufficiently nourished. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will promptly cure because they enrich the blood with iron and thus give new strength and tone to the exhausted nerves. No other medicine can do this so promptly and so surely.

Mr. W. H. Hipson, East Pembroke, N.S., says: "For a number of years I was troubled with fits of headaches. When these spells came on the pain was so severe that I feared I would lose my senses. These headaches would come on about once a week. I doctored for the trouble and did everything possible to get relief, but without avail, and at one time went on the attack grew both in frequency and severity. I was in a terrible state of mind. The only relief I could get was a hot bath, and then I would find application of hot water and ammonia to my head. I would then have to lie down, but when I awoke I would find the attack passed away. At this time Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were brought to my notice, and I was very anxious to try them. After taking a few boxes I found that the headaches were not so severe, and I joyfully continued taking the Pills until I had used ten boxes. When every symptom had passed away, I was in better health than I had ever enjoyed before. I am now a healthy man, and I have not had a headache since I feel that the cure is permanent. There is no more to be said of my case, but no words can tell what my sufferings really were and I believe that but for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I would have been in my grave, for I could not have stood the pain much longer, and doctors did not do me any good."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are "sold by all druggists, or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

For nine long years he had been wailing his fair daughter's name. "Jennie," he mused, as they sat on the old rail fence, "I read the other day that in a thousand years the lakes of Killarney will dry up."

"Oh, Tom!" she exclaimed.

"Why, as you promised to take me there on the honeymoon, don't you think we'd better be a little careful that they don't dry up before we get there?"

Winter set in this year on Nov. 5th, some farmers ploughed on the 6th but that was the last for this season. A larger acreage than usual of fall ploughing has been done. Most of the threshing outfits have completed their work, and farmers are winding up one of the best seasons in the history of the province.

J. A. Speight has purchased the steam laundry from Mrs. Stent and has taken possession. Mr. Speight is a quiet, unassuming young man but with considerable experience in the business, and we feel that he will make a success of his venture. This business is deserving of the strong support of all citizens. There are hot and cold baths in connection with the laundry that have been neglected of late, but they will be now kept in order and a perfect service is assured the public.

James Watson, who arrived from Scotland this summer, and has been visiting his son John Watson, chief engineer of the Western General Electric Company, met with an unfortunate accident on Friday. He had gone out to visit some relatives at Willowdale, and while playing with the children in the yard, carrying them on his back, he slipped, and to save them, gave such a twist as to break his left leg above the ankle. He was brought into town where he is doing as well as can be expected for a man of 70 years of age.

AN INTOLERABLE NUISANCE

Many persons who require glasses for distance and an additional correction for near objects put up with the intolerable nuisance of keeping track of two pairs of glasses, because they do not know that there are two vision lenses, or because they have been prejudiced against glasses of this kind by poorly made glasses improperly adjusted. Our two vision lenses are all one piece, the very acme of scientific achievement, and when properly fitted and adjusted are not only a thing of beauty, but a joy forever. Let me show them to you.

BORN.

On Oct. 17th, at Lesser Slave Lake, to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Martin, a son.

Correspondence.

To the Editor of The News.
Dear Sir,—Through the medium of your paper, can you bring to the notice of the proper authorities the very bad state of the north approach to our fine new bridge; the newly filled in ground having settled down, there is a very bad hole close to the woodwork, and several between that and Mr. Martin's store.

And, dear sir, while you are about the business, you might mention the awful state of the big hill going north; also the Fine hill and the Michener hill going east of our town, each of which is in a very bad and unsafe condition, there being in each some very bad holes, which, if seen to at once, would make the little safe for use all winter; whereas if left, let those holes, grain or hay on sleighs look out for some bad spills, as the holes are quite deep enough to upset a load. Thinking if the proper authorities were conversant with these matters, and seeing how small a matter it would be now (yes, right now) to make them safe for the winter, I as a believer in good roads, and that prevention is much better than cure, venture to do my part to call attention to them, and thanking you in anticipation, I remain, Yours truly, FRANK MOTT.

EVIDENCE OF APPRECIATION.

Mr. F. Mott, Auctioneer, Red Deer.
Dear Sir,—In acknowledging the receipt of the balance due me from the sale of my furniture, I wish to say, without any suggestion from you that I should do so, that I am thoroughly pleased with the results of the sale by auction as conducted by you, as well as by your handling of the whole business, and your commission is very moderate, and the expenses reasonable. I do not think you could have done better in my interests. You can make public use of this if you wish to do so. Yours very truly, J. R. COWELL.

Red Deer, Oct. 29th, 1909.

To the Editor of The News:
Dear Sir,—The above letter from Mr. Cowell may seem a little late in the day, but when I mention that, owing to the lack of buyers at the time of his sale, I was unable to clear all his goods out, but have done so since by private sale, including his piano, and rendered a final account last week, it will be quite understood. Yours truly, F. MOTT.
